Citizen Initiated Referendum on Fluoride

The Hamilton citizens whose name and signature appear below, who all confirm they are registered to vote on the Hamilton electoral roll:

Call for a binding referendum on whether fluoride should be added to Hamilton City's water supply to be held as part of the October 2013 council elections.

This request is made under Hamilton City Council's Citizens Initiated Referenda policy.

The principle petitioner is Ewan Angus Duncan Wilson, whose details are listed below.

It is acknowledged by all those who signed the document below calling for a referendum that the cost of a referendum is estimated by the Hamilton Electoral Officer to be $12,000 if held as part of the October elections.
